Summary: A story where your favorite characters duel it out for no reason other than your entertainment!

Duels of the Millenium

Hey, guys! This is a new story idea I've had on my mind for a while, and if enough people are interested in it, I'll make it a reality! So I've seen the scripted duels they have at World Championship Qualifiers, and I loved the ideas of characters who (more often than not) have never met before duking it out! So I decided to make a story based on the idea. Basically, each chapter will feature two characters facing off against each other. This will mostly be based off of requests; with a few that I wanted to do. Here are the rules:

Any duelist from any anime or manga series can be used, however the character appears in both the anime and manga for their series you need to specify which one. I will also take requests for both interpretations of the character to duel eachother if people are into that.

The rules for the duels will be from the anime, meaning each duelist has 4000 life points instead of 8000.

Anime and manga exclusive cards will be used as necessary. Also, characters may use cards that they have never use previously if I feel the card will fit their deck.

Duel Monster spirits can be used, as long as they appeared as duelists in the anime and manga.

Tag duels and Battle Royales can be conducted if they are requested.

Please keep in mind that this story has no set schedule, though I will try to update as often as possible. Please, let me know what you think!
